

Use of Logos – Rules and Regulations and Clients' Representation of Their Certification

Representation of Certification

Companies certified by Amtivo are not required to publicize their certification, nor to use any restricted logos or marks. However, if they do, they must comply with these requirements. If they do not comply, the Amtivo auditor must write a nonconformity report (NCR) to the client referencing the Amtivo Certification Regulations 2.1 e.

Amtivo auditors are required to review the client's website, marketing, and other materials to ensure the client's representation of their certification (if any) is accurate and in compliance with the following requirements. This includes the proper usage of ANSI National Accreditation Board (ANAB) Marks, Amtivo Marks and specific scheme holder marks (R2, e-Stewards, etc) and to ensure there is no misleading, inaccurate or outdated information regarding the client's certification. This would include information that is unclear or misleading regarding which locations or products/services are included in the certification scope, or information that misleads a viewer into believing a management system standard certifies products. If there are unclear, incorrect or obsolete representations of the certification or improper usage of logos or marks per Amtivo's Use of Logos Rules and Regulations, the Amtivo auditor must issue a nonconformity report (NCR) to the client referencing the Amtivo Certification Regulations 2.1 e. Examples of audits trails include:

- If a copy of the client's certificate is displayed on its website or wall or elsewhere, is it current?
- If there are statements or symbols that reference the Client's Certification, are each of these statements clear & accurate regarding the scope of the certification? This includes information on which locations or products/services are included in the certification scope or statements that mislead a viewer into believing a management system standard certifies products.
- If a client uses the Amtivo, accreditation body (ANAB) or scheme holder's (R2, RIOS, e-Stewards) name, mark or logo, is it an acceptable version and do they use it correctly per the following requirements?
- Do the client's letterhead, business cards and email signatures meet requirements?

Note: If one page of a website is misleading, and clarifying statements are on other pages, the misleading page must still be corrected.

The following sections of this document summarize the requirements for using the Amtivo, accreditation body and scheme holder's logos by Amtivo clients.

Statements Regarding Client Certification

Per ISO 17021-1, 8.2.1 Certification bodies, such as Amtivo, must have rules governing the use of any statement on product packaging or in accompanying information that the certified client has a certified management system. Product packaging is considered as that which can be removed without the product disintegrating or being damaged. Accompanying information is considered as separately available or easily detachable. Type labels or identification plates are considered as part of the product.

The statement shall in no way imply that the product, process or service is certified by this means. The statement shall include reference to:

- identification (e.g. brand or name) of the certified client;
- the type of management system (e.g. quality, environment) and the applicable standard;
(including the revision year)
- the certification body issuing the certificate.

IAF Logo

1. Amtivo Clients may not use the IAF logo except as part of a reference or link to the IAF's certificate verification database.

Amtivo Certification Mark

Although Amtivo's logo has changed, there is no deadline for its partners or clients, to transition to the new Amtivo Certification Mark, with the exception of those Amtivo Certification Marks which contain the revision of the standard. For these logos, only the version with the correct revision of the standard may be used. The new Amtivo Certification Mark is shown at the end of this document.

1. The Amtivo Certification Mark may be used alone, but any and all accreditation agency logos/marks must always be used in conjunction with the Amtivo Certification Mark in order to provide traceability back to the certification body as required by ISO 17021-1, 8.3.1.
2. The Amtivo Certification Mark must appear to be about the same size as the accreditation logo(s) and in a size which makes all features of the mark clearly distinguishable without distortion of its dimensions. If a client uses the "Amtivo Certified" standard-specific logo(s) provided, the logo must not be reduced to an illegible size, nor should the type be blurry.
